Message from the Dean

Hello and welcome to the University of Ottawa, Faculty of Education, situated on the ancestral territories of the Algonquin people and serving Ontario’s francophone and Anglophone school systems. We are pleased to offer you admission for September 2019. Our full-time two-year Teacher Education program has been designed to reflect the latest educational research and is tailored to the needs of our school-based partners. All our programs reflect the Faculty’s strategic priorities, namely the franco-ontarian community, Indigenous rights, innovation in education, educational technologies, and social justice.

The two years of education you are about to undertake promise to be very enriching, not only academically, but also personally, socially and professionally. You will take a range of courses and professional learning opportunities that will equip you to take on the classroom responsibilities you will face as a new teacher. By the end of your program, you will be familiar with a wide range of valuable, innovative teaching strategies, have an understanding of the social context of schooling and the needs of every child, and most importantly, have become a professional educator.

I will have a chance to meet you in person at the Faculty’s Orientation Day on Tuesday, September 3, 2019.

I wish you an enriching educational experience as you learn and make new friends in the dynamic and stimulating environment at the Faculty of Education of the University of Ottawa.

Richard Barwell, PhD
Dean of the Faculty of Education
